

Question of the Day

Get to know the Quran

Part I

What is the difference in the meaning between the following 4 phrases that all came in the Quran.

Ya'fu	يعفو
Yaghfir	يغفر
Yasfah	يصفح
Al-Safh Al-Jameel	الصفح الجميل

Part II

The the phrases Ya'fu, Yaghfir, and Yasfah all came in one ayah in the Quran. What is the ayah and what was the occasion of revelation of the ayah?

Part I

Means to forgive someone who has done you wrong, but you might still feel something in your heart about it.

Means the same except this is a higher level of forgiveness because it involves you covering up what your brother or sister did to you and not go around telling people about it.

Means all of the above and that you have nothing in your heart what so ever.

Means all of the above in addition to you begin with Salam first when you see your brother or sister that you have been in dispute with. It's the highest level of forgiveness.

Answer

يعفو

يغفر

الصفح

الصفح الجميل

Part II

There are two ayat that combine the three phrases mentioned in the question.

The first one is in Sarah Annoor ayah #22, which was revealed in Abu Baker Al-Siddiq RadiaALLahuanho when he turned away his cousin Mistah bin Athatha when he spoke about the mother of the believers Aisha, and then Allah SWT revealed the ayah 22 Teaching us that it would not be appropriate for those of virtue and wealth to not give to the relatives, the needy, and the migrants for the cause of Allah. Reflecting on Abu Bakr RadiaAllahuanho. His cousin Mistah was a poor man. And the ayah says that we should pardon and overlook the mistakes that others do and to forgive, and the ayah ends by saying don't you love for Allah to forgive you and to cover your sins?

The second ayah is in Surah Altaghabon Ayah 14.
